9. RESEARCH GRANTS

(i) GENERAL RESEARCH FUND.—H.M. Government placed at the disposal of the Academy a grant of £40,000 for the subvention of research in the Humanities in 1964-5. Of this sum £5,000 has been set aside by the Council of the Academy for grants to approved 'central' periodicals. Other grants are as follows:

Dr. F. R. Allchin: For the further excavation of an Indo-Greek site in the North-West Frontier region of Pakistan, as part of a programme to link the cultures of the area with those of Afghanistan and Persia on the one hand and the Indo-Pakistan sub-continent on the other. The work is to be undertaken jointly with the University of Peshawar	£	1,000
Professor J. N. D. Anderson: The completion of a Union Catalogue of Foreign Law. So far, information has been collected concerning holdings of about 550 legal periodicals published in, or relating to, Western Europe in the libraries of Oxford, Cambridge, and London. It is now proposed to concentrate on the holdings of Codes, collections of Statutes, Law Reports, and major treatises in the law of Western European countries		750
Anglo-Norman Text Society: For editorial expenses towards the completion of an Anglo-Norman Dictionary, the printing of which should begin in 1966		500
Avon-Severn Valleys Research Committee: The archaeological study of early settlement-patterns in the Avon and Severn Valleys

where aerial photography has disclosed more than 200 ancient habitation sites. These discoveries alter the usually accepted picture of a virtually unoccupied Midland plain in prehistoric and Roman times, and their interpretation is of importance to the understanding of the economic and environmental development of the area	£ 250
Mrs. M. Bardswell: To prepare for publication a revision of Keyser's List of Buildings having Mural Decoration (1883), with the addition of material collected over many years by the applicant	400
Dr. E. Baumgartel: For the preparation of an index of objects from the Naqada tombs (nearly 2,000 graves) excavated by Sir Flinders Petrie in 1894. The bulk of the material remains unpublished and is now dispersed throughout Europe and America, and a complete index, when published, will provide new statistical evidence of value to the study of Egyptian pre-history	400
Mr. I. Blake: An archaeological study of the Neolithic-Chalcolithic transition in Jordan, in an attempt to discover what happened to the Neolithic inhabitants of Jericho, to trace something of the course of the change to early metal-using cultures, and to discover whether or not the advantages possessed by the first metal-workers and users led to the establishment of their superiority over the Neolithic peoples	400
Sir Anthony Blunt: Preparation for publication by the Warburg Institute of the final volume of a complete catalogue raisonné of the drawings of Nicolas Poussin	250
Miss M. St. C. Byrne: The completion for publication of an edition of the Lisle Letters , the personal, official, and business correspondence which accumulated during the years 1533-40 in the household of Arthur Plantagenet, Viscount Lisle, illegitimate son of Edward IV	600
Professor C. R. Cheney: Preparation of a Calendar of Letters of Pope Innocent III (1160-1216) concerning England and Wales	365
Professor K. A. C. Creswell: Publication of a new edition of the applicant's Early Muslim Architecture , pt. i. The work was first published in 1932, but has long been out of print, and the new edition will contain much additional material	1,000
Dr. C. M. D. Crowder: A study of the Vatican Archives, with special reference to the period of the Councils of Constance, Basel and Pisa and the Lateran. It is proposed to explore the relationship between the regular curial offices and the officials appointed by the general councils of the fifteenth century, particularly with regard to cases of conflict between the two jurisdictions	500
Mr. C. M. Daniels: A reconstruction, by means of archaeological investigation, of the native civilization of the Garamantes of the Fezzan, now the Saharan province of Libya, and the impact upon it of Roman culture and technique	1,000

Miss B. de Cardi: A season of exploration and trial-excavation in south-west Baluchistan, with the primary object of extending the chronology of this important border-region in the formative third and fourth millennia	£ 1,000
Early English Church Music Committee: For the systematic preparation of a series of publications of Early English Church Music down to c. 1640. The project is also supported by the Pilgrim Trust, the Elmgrant Trust, and All Souls College, Oxford	1,500
Professor J. D. Evans: Towards the publication of a survey of the Neolithic and Bronze Age Antiquities of Malta	500
Mrs. G. Galbraith: Preparation for publication of the unpublished manuscript diary (1792-1800) of the Rev. William Bagshaw Stevens (1756-1800), minor poet, headmaster of Repton from 1779 until his death, and domestic chaplain to the Burdett family of Foremark in Derbyshire. The manuscript is in the Huntington Library, California	300
Miss S. Gibson: To enable the applicant to spend nine months in Rome, to collaborate in a survey, to be made for publication by the British School at Rome, of the triclinium (banqueting hall) and adjoining rooms of the palace of Domitian on the Palatine Hill. Part of a more general study of the great palaces of the Palatine	350
Mrs. S. J. Hallam: For work on a survey of Romano-British settlement round the Wash, as part of the Royal Geographical Society's Fenland project. The field-work has been completed and has now to be prepared for publication	85
Professor C. F. C. Hawkes: For work relating to the British Bronze Age, including the continued preparation of the national Card Catalogue of Bronze Age Implements ; and towards the cost of preparing for publication by the Oxford University Press a Corpus of Anglo-Saxon Graves and Grave-Goods	775
Mr. J. B. Hennessy: To obtain material in museums of Europe and the Near East for a study of the problems of the trade and foreign relations of Palestine during the Early and Late Bronze Age	400
Mr. E. S. Higgs: A further season to establish, by means of archaeological investigation, the Palaeolithic succession in Greece and to seek information, by the study of faunal remains, on the environmental aspects of the Mediterranean	1,000
Dr. F. R. Hodson: Preparation of notes and drawings of finds from the early Celtic cemetery of Münsingen, near Bern, in Switzerland. The relevant material is housed in the Bernisches Historisches Museum, and the project is shared with the museum authorities, who will provide the cost of publication	600
Dr. T. H. Howard-Hill: Completion of a study with the aid of a computer of Ralph Crane and five Shakespearian First Folio comedies, research into scribal and compositorial influence in the First Folio, as part of the work towards the applicant's proposed Old-Spelling Shakespeare Concordance	£ 500

Mr. M. R. Hull: To enable the applicant to collect further important material for an illustrated Corpus of Roman Brooches found in Britain , which he has been preparing for publication for some years	150
Mr. J. G. Hurst: For the preparation of a report on the deserted medieval village of Wharram Percy, Yorkshire, two monographs on the counties of Oxfordshire and Northamptonshire, and a summary of the results of ten years' work on deserted villages elsewhere	400
Professor A. H. M. Jones: For assistance in the preparation of the Prosopography of the Later Roman Empire	1,000
Mr. G. I. Jones: The correlation of the history and traditions of the Eastern Region of Nigeria, by means of reference to the Government Archives in Ibadan and Enugu, a study of the Eastern Delta Hinterland (the Ibo and Ibibio-speaking people), and the collection of evidence in some of the more remote areas of the region	1,000
The Rev. Dr. V. E. G. Kenna: Preparation of the third fascicule of the Corpus of Cretan and Mycenaean Seals , which is to include the seals in the British Museum, the Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge, and the Finlay Collection, now at Manchester University	250
Miss D. Kirkbride: A further season of research into the Neolithic of Western Asia, largely at the Pre-Pottery Neolithic village of Beidha in East Jordan	1,000
Mr. G. Knox: Preparation of a complete catalogue of the drawings of Tiepolo	250
Professor S. H. F. Lloyd: Publication of the second and final volume of the report on excavations at Beycesultan, Anatolia (1954-9), which is to include full details of the notable Middle Bronze Age 'Burnt Palace' discovered at the site	500
Mrs. M. D. Lobel: To employ a cartographer and historian for the preparation for publication of the British Section of a European Atlas illustrating the development of towns in Western Europe (including Poland) down to about 1800-25. The project is one of three major commitments of the Arbeitsgruppe für Städtegeschichte , a sub-committee of the International Committee for the Historical Sciences	1,000
Dr. C. B. M. McBurney: A continuation of the programme of field-work begun in 1963 to investigate the Upper Palaeolithic of north-east Persia. During the previous season evidence of Mousterian and Mesolithic industries was found and it is hoped this season to discover manifestations of the Upper Palaeolithic	500
Professor A. McIntosh and Professor M. L. Samuels: For the compilation of an Atlas of the Dialects of Later Middle English , to contain, together with maps, a written treatment of the whole subject. Publication is to be undertaken jointly by the University Presses of Edinburgh and Yale	£ 300

Professor M. E. L. Mallowan: For the continuation by members of the British School of Archaeology in Iraq of the repair, sorting, classification, and publication of the collection of Assyrian ivories discovered in recent years at Nimrud, and now housed largely in Baghdad	1,000
Medieval Latin Dictionary Committee: For the preparation, by a Committee appointed by the Academy, of a Dictionary of British Medieval Latin to be ready for publication in 1974	1,200
Mr. J. Mellaart: For a fourth season of excavation at Çatal Hüyük, perhaps the largest Neolithic site yet identified in the Near East, and certainly one of the earliest towns at present known. It is hoped to strip the remaining levels, which are thought to fall within the 8th millennium	1,000
Monumenta Musicae Byzantinae: For the publication of Byzantine music by the Committee administered by the Royal Danish Academy in collaboration with the British Academy and the Union Académique Internationale	300
Dr. J. R. Morris: British contribution to a second edition of the Prosopography of the Early Roman Empire , undertaken by the Berlin Academy	150
Dr. J. N. L. Myres: To enable the applicant to prepare his material on pagan Anglo-Saxon pottery, accumulated over the past thirty-five years or so, for delivery as the Rhind Lectures in Edinburgh in 1965	500
Mr. P. J. Parr: For further research into the nature and date of the initial Nabataean occupation of Petra in Jordan, and to provide stratified material for a corpus of Nabataean pottery	1,000
Dr. P. D. Partner: Completion of a study of the history of the Papal State in the Later Middle Ages and the Renaissance, by reference to archives in the Vatican and at Naples	200
Mr. C. Renfrew: An investigation of early Aegean prehistory by excavation on the island of Saliago, between Paros and Antiparos, where there are believed to exist the remains of a Neolithic settlement, the first to be found in the Cyclades	400
Royal Asiatic Society: For the repair and binding of rare books and manuscripts in the Society's library	300
Mr. P. H. Sawyer: Publication by the Royal Historical Society of a Handbook of Pre-Conquest Charters prepared by the applicant. The list is intended to include all diplomas, leases, wills, writs, and similar documents that purport to have been drawn up in England before the Norman Conquest	500
Scottish Dictionaries Joint Council: For the continued preparation of the Scottish National Dictionary and the Dictionary of the Older Scottish Tongue , under the guidance of a council supported by the four Scottish universities, the Carnegie Trust for the Universities of Scotland, and the Scottish National Dictionary Association	£ 1,000

Society for Theatre Research: Towards the cost of publishing a revision, undertaken by Dr. J. F. Arnott of the University of Glasgow and Dr. J. Robinson of the University of Nebraska, of Lowe's Bibliographical Account of English Theatrical Literature (1888)	250
Dr. B. A. Sparkes: To enable the applicant to collect material in Greece and in European museums for his study of Boeotian art and for two proposed archaeological publications	250
Professor T. J. B. Spencer: Compilation of a Supplement to Bartlett's Concordance to Shakespeare (1894), to be undertaken by the applicant in association with Fellows of the Shakespeare Institute	300
Mr. B. J. Spooner: To investigate tribal organization and movement patterns of the Makran range in Baluchistan. The work, undertaken in co-operation with the Institute of Social Studies and Research, University of Tehran, will form part of a research programme on religion and social structure in eastern Iran	500
Survey of English Dialects: To complete for publication (by the University of Leeds) a survey begun in 1946 by Professor Harold Orton and the late Professor Eugen Dieth, and continued under the direction of Professor Orton. The immediate objective is the publication of the basic material in thirteen volumes, of which one (Introduction and The Northern Counties) has already appeared	1,000
Miss O. Tufnell: Completion of a study of the contents of the Montet Jar from Byblos, in connexion with the synchronism of chronologies of Egypt and Western Asia	400
Professor E. G. Turner: For the continuation of work under the direction of the applicant on the fragmentary Oxyrhynchus papyri now at Oxford. The project is part of a larger scheme, governed by the Egypt Exploration Society, for preparing for scholarly attention all the unpublished papyri brought from Egypt by B. P. Grenfell and A. S. Hunt on behalf of the Society	500
Professor A. Wasserstein: To prepare a new edition of the Arithmētikē Eisagōgē , a mathematical treatise by Nicomachus, and a first edition of a commentary on that work by Asclepius of Tralles. The project involves visiting several European libraries	350
Mr. F. J. B. Watson: Preparation for publication of the fourth volume of Lugt's Répertoire des Catalogues de Ventes	150
Mr. J. M. Weatherby: For further study of the culture of the Sebei-speaking groups of Mount Elgon, Uganda, and their relationship with neighbouring Kalenjin tribes	250
Welland Valley Research Committee: Archaeological investigation of settlements of the Neolithic to Medieval periods in the Welland Valley. The increase in gravel extraction for industry has destroyed many sites, and excavation of selected areas has been undertaken before more evidence is thus obliterated	100

Sir Mortimer Wheeler: Preparation of a monograph on Pakistan archaeology for the Oxford University Press. In the absence of adequate publication, much new material must be investigated on the spot, particularly in Baluchistan and the North-West Frontier	£ 550
Mr. F. Willett: Preparation for publication of the final report of excavations undertaken at the Palace of Ilesha, Western Nigeria, in 1958. The site produced some notable terracotta sculptures, which help to fill the gap between the naturalistic sculptures in terracotta and bronze from Ife (usually dated to the twelfth to fourteenth centuries) and the wood and mud sculptures of Yoruba, which are rarely more than fifty years old	500
	£33,425

(ii) PILGRIM TRUST RESEARCH FUND.—The sum of £2,000 a year for two years has been placed at the disposal of the Academy by the Pilgrim Trust for the subvention of a major project of research. In consultation with the Trustees, the Council of the Academy has allotted the sum as follows for 1964-5:

(a) Towards the cost of the publication of a new and complete edition of the Works and Correspondence of Jeremy Bentham , under the direction of University College, London	£ 750
(b) Towards the cost of sorting, mounting, and listing the manuscripts from the Geniza of the Synagogue in Old Cairo and now in the University Library of Cambridge. The work is being undertaken by a joint committee consisting of the Faculty Board of Oriental Studies and the Syndics of the University Library under the direction of Professor D. Winton Thomas	1,250
	£2,000

(iii) ALBERT RECKITT ARCHAEOLOGICAL FUND.—To provide for the exploration and excavation of ancient sites in any part of the world with a view to increasing knowledge of early civilizations and the history of mankind; and for the preservation and exhibition of evidence and the publication of results.

Welsh Board of Celtic Studies (Bulletin, Llên Cymru, Philosophical Studies, Welsh Historical Review)	100
	£3,000

11. ARCHAEOLOGICAL AND HISTORICAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE FOR OVERSEAS CO-OPERATION

Aden.—Mr. Gerald Lankester Harding's illustrated Report, Archaeology in the Aden Protectorates, was published in the spring of 1964 by H.M. Stationery Office for the Department of Technical Co-operation. The survey provides a record of archaeological sites in Aden and emphasizes the urgent needs for more detailed investigation and for systematic conservation. It was carried out by the Aden Government on the recommendation of the Academy's Archaeological and Historical Advisory Committee for Overseas Co-operation, with the aid of an allocation from the Colonial Development and Welfare Research Fund.

12. ARCHAEOLOGICAL SALVAGE-WORK IN NUBIA.—The British contribution to the international campaign organized by UNESCO to save the relics of ancient civilizations and cultures in Nubia is now almost complete.

During the last six months the very remarkable Middle Kingdom fortress of Buhen in the Sudan, with a defensive perimeter of more than a mile, has been completely excavated, and we now have for the first time comprehensive records of Egyptian military architecture of c. 1900 B.C. Work in the season 1963-4 was concentrated on the area lying below the foundations of the temple of Hatshepsut, which was dismantled in the previous season and now awaits re-erection at Khartoum. As expected, the buildings in this part of the fortress were well preserved, and they included the original mud-brick temple of the Middle Kingdom, a structure unique of its kind. Attention was also paid to the much-denuded defences on the outer perimeter of the fortress; contrary to previous belief, these were not a New Kingdom addition but were a part of the original fortifications. Moreover, there were two defence systems: one with round towers, built probably by Senusret I; the other, with square towers, built by Senusret III.

Also at Buhen, the Old Kingdom town, the discovery of which pushed back the history of Egyptian colonization in the south by 400 years to the age of the Pyramid builders, has now been finally explored and recorded.

All that now remains of the British commitments in Sudanese Nubia is the necropolis of Kor, situated near the head of the Second Cataract. This work is limited in extent and will be accomplished early in the season 1964-5.

With regard to the 'finds', the British expedition has been particularly fortunate during the recent season and, following a generous division by the Sudan Government Antiquities Service, it has been possible to bring home twenty-seven large cases of antiquities for the enrichment of museums in this country.

In Egypt itself the Egypt Exploration Society's expedition had a somewhat sensationally productive season. Work was directed to the exploration of the fortified town of Kasr Ibrim, the ancient Premis, which was at one time the southernmost frontier of the Roman Empire. It was mainly concentrated on the excavation of the notable early Christian church which dominated the citadel of the town. Here in the crypt was found the untouched burial of a bishop, and with it were two perfectly preserved illuminated paper scrolls dated to A.D. 1372, one in Coptic and the other in Arabic with a length of more than 15 feet. These unique documents are deeds of authority from the Patriarch for the consecration of the bishop. Further excavation in the church resulted in the discovery of more documents of the period, written in Greek, Coptic, and Old Nubian, on paper, papyrus, and leather, a veritable treasure-trove for the philologist. Until further study, the value of this mass of written material cannot be estimated, and therefore, with the agreement of the Egyptian Antiquities Service, the division has been postponed. In these circumstances the Society has requested permission to bring the scrolls for study and exhibition in London, to be later returned to Cairo for division. The decision of the Egyptian authorities on this request is awaited.

Excavation of the rest of the town at Ibrim will be finished in 1964-5, and the completion of this work will fulfil the commitments of the United Kingdom in the over-all scheme of research-work in Nubia.

It is now opportune to review the nature and extent of the British contribution as a whole to the Nubian salvage scheme. It falls under four main heads:

1. A survey of visible remains of antiquity along the banks of the Nubian Nile.
2. The excavation of selected sites of importance.
3. The removal of temples threatened by the new inundation to safe sites in Egypt, the Sudan, or elsewhere.
4. The preservation of two sites, namely the island of Philae with its temples, and the great rock-cut, elaborately sculptured shrines of Rameses II and his queen at Abu Simbel.

In regard to (1), a British expedition in the name of the Egypt Exploration Society and directed by Professor W. B. Emery and Mr. H. S. Smith has carried out a survey of the antiquities of the Nubian Nile within Egypt.

In regard to (2), Professor Emery has excavated the fortress of Buhen in the Sudan and will proceed to the excavation of the necropolis of Kor, higher up the river. At the same time he and his colleagues have been working at Kasr Ibrim in Egypt.

In regard to (3), Professor Emery has removed the temple of Hatshepsut at Buhen (see above).

Under (4), Philae is to be preserved by dams built with funds from the U.S.A., whilst the United Kingdom has transferred £76,000 from British funds 'frozen' in Egypt towards the international project for carving up and rebuilding at a higher level the two temples at Abu Simbel.

In addition to the contribution to the last project, H.M. Government has since 1960 provided through the Academy special grants amounting to £43,000 for projects 1-3.

13. JERUSALEM EXCAVATIONS.—Excavations in Jerusalem were continued in 1963 with the aid of a grant from the Academy and in collaboration with the École Biblique and the Royal Ontario Museum.

The main objective of the excavations remains the tracing and dating of the city walls of various periods south of the present Old City, as the best means of providing an outline of the chronology of the site. In the first two seasons the position of the walls of the early city was located well down the eastern slope at a point 160 feet further east than the wall hitherto attributed to this period. In 1963 the tracing of these walls was continued, but the excavation is not yet complete. The most interesting find in this neighbourhood was an extra-mural sanctuary, which is still extending beyond the excavated area. A beginning was also made in an attempt to locate the city-walls on the western side of the eastern ridge. The necessary depth has not yet been reached, but one of the excavations has reached the levels of an important Herodian structure. It is certainly a public building, and is probably extra-mural, but further clearance is required to identify it; an amphitheatre is a possibility.

The 1963 season also completed the excavation of the site south of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre. The site provided conclusive evidence as to the possibility of the church being on the authentic site of Calvary, to an extent quite unexpected from the smallness of the area explored. At a depth of 50 feet, bedrock was reached. It had been quarried in the seventh century B.C., and over the seventh-century fill of the quarry there was no occupation at all beneath a deep tipped deposit, probably part of levelling operations in connexion with Aelia Capitolina in the second century A.D. The site, and therefore that of the church to the north, was outside the city till that date.

Work was also continued on two other important sites within the walls of the Old City. One is believed to be that of the establishment of the Legio X Fretensis. The first level reached was, however, that of an important medieval building, probably a bazaar; in consequence the season was spent in clearing a further area before continuing down. An indication of what is to come is given by a fragment of an attractive Byzantine mosaic, and a score of legionary stamps. In the other site, to the south of the Haram esh-Sherif, the level reached is that of a monumental Byzantine complex, probably representing the two hospices which, according to Procopius, were built for sick pilgrims and the indigent poor by Justinian in the sixth century A.D.

14. SYLLOGE OF COINS OF THE BRITISH ISLES.—In July 1964, the Committee's fourth volume, Copenhagen I, dealing with Anglo-Saxon coins up to Edward the Martyr, was published. The volume, edited by Dr. G. Galster, is the first of four covering Anglo-Saxon coins in the Royal Danish Cabinet, and the Committee regard the completion of this important work as a primary responsibility. Dr. Galster has already finished the second volume (Aethelred II), which should appear in 1965 and is at work on the third (Cnut). Chester I, edited by Miss Elizabeth Pirie, is in proof and should be published in September

1964. The Committee has also received completed manuscripts from Edinburgh and from the Ashmolean, where in addition work on a second volume (covering Norman coins to Henry II) is in progress.

15. MEDIEVAL LATIN DICTIONARY.—It is hoped that the Revised Medieval Latin Word-List will be published by the end of 1964. In November 1963 the Council of the Academy reconstituted the Medieval Latin Dictionary Committee, to consist of Dr. R. W. Hunt, Mr. H. C. Johnson (Secretary), Mr. R. E. Latham (Editor), Sir Roger Mynors, and Dr. F. J. E. Raby (Chairman). It is proposed to proceed with the preparation of a Dictionary of British Medieval Latin, to be ready for publication in 1974. Mr. Latham will be employed part-time on the project until May 1967, and from then will give full time to it. It is intended to appoint an Assistant Editor to reorganize the material in standard form, check it where needed ready for the actual drafting, and produce specimen articles. It is also planned to build up a library of working texts where these cannot be obtained on long loan. The Keeper of Public Records has agreed that the Public Record Office shall continue to provide accommodation for the Dictionary.

16. EARLY ENGLISH CHURCH MUSIC.—In addition to the subvention from the British Academy as patron of the project, the grant from the Pilgrim Trust has been renewed, and support is also being given by All Souls College, Oxford, and by the Elmgrant Trust.

The second volume of the series, the Latin Antiphons and Psalms of William Mundy, edited by Dr. F. Ll. Harrison, was published in July 1963, and the third volume, the Verse Anthems of Orlando Gibbons, edited by David Wulstan (Oxford), appeared in June 1964. The following three volumes are in the press: Early Tudor Magnificats, vol. i, edited by Paul Doe (Birmingham); Thomas Tomkins, Musica Deo Sacra, vol. i, edited by Dr. Bernard Rose (Oxford); and Early Tudor Organ Music, vol. i, edited by John Caldwell (Bristol).

The manuscripts of the two subsequent volumes are nearing completion, and arrangements have been made for a further fifteen volumes.

The Committee hopes to be able to sponsor the printing of a Catalogue of English Service Music from the Reformation to the Restoration, which the authors, Dr. Peter le Huray (Cambridge) and Dr. Ralph Daniel (Indiana), expect to complete by the summer of 1964.

17. REPERTORY OF THE SOURCES OF MEDIEVAL HISTORY.—Part II, lengthier than Part I (published 1962), is now in the press.

18. ENCYCLOPAEDIA OF ISLAM.—During the past year work has continued on Volume II: fascicules 30–34 have been published and fascicule 35 should appear before the end of the year. The preparation of fascicules 36 and 37 is well advanced.

19. ENGLISH PLACE-NAME SOCIETY.—It is expected that the first three volumes of Gloucestershire will be published in July 1964, and the fourth volume will follow in the autumn of 1965. The greater part of Westmorland has now been completed, and this will be followed by Cheshire and Berkshire. Professor K. Cameron hopes to have the Parts of Holland in Lincolnshire ready by 1970, and other Lincolnshire volumes to be prepared will be two further surveys of the Parts of Kesteven and the Parts of Lindsey. As reported last year, work is also proceeding on Dorset and Shropshire.

20. MONUMENTA MUSICAE BYZANTINAE.—During the course of 1963 the firm of E. Munksgaard of Copenhagen, which has produced the four series Facsimilia, Subsidia, Transcripta, and Lectionaria, merged with Blackwell's of Oxford. It is hoped that as a result of this there will be a widened distribution of the Monumenta Musicae Byzantinae, of which several volumes are now out of print. The printing of the facsimile volume of Cod. Saba 83 and of Professor O. Strunk's Specimina notationis antiquioris is progressing satisfactorily. Professor G. Zuntz is preparing the sixth fascicule of the Prophetologium.

N. G. Wilson of Lincoln College, Oxford, and D. Stefanović of the Musicological Institute, Belgrade, have edited for the Bodleian Library publications a catalogue of Manuscripts of Byzantine Chant in Oxford. D. Stefanović is also preparing the publication of the January Stichera for the Transcripta series.

Mr. Marc Dragoumis from Athens, who for the last two years has been working in Oxford, is preparing a comprehensive study of Late Byzantine and Neo-Greek Chant.

21. THESAURUS LINGUAE LATINAE.—The fund collected through the Academy for this work has now reached a total of £2,635.

22. ARISTOTELES LATINUS.—Volume II. 1-2, De Interpretatione, is in the press. The last proofs of the two translations (by Boethius, edited by L. Minio-Paluello, and by William of Moerbeke, edited by G. Verbeke and revised by L. Minio-Paluello) and their critical apparatus have been corrected; the Appendix, containing specimina of about twenty later Latin versions and supplements to the Latin apparatus, has reached the second proofs; the Index Verborum and Preface will soon be set up.

Volume XI. 1-2, De Mundo (second edition), is also in the press. This volume will contain—apart from the texts mentioned in the previous report—a translation, so far unknown, by Jacopo Sadoletto, and a revised text of Apuleius's paraphrase. The first proofs of the two medieval translations (edited by W. L. Lorimer, revised by L. Minio-Paluello) of Rinucio's version (edited by L. Minio-Paluello) and of Argyropulos's translation (edited by Mrs. G. F. Muscarella) have been corrected; the specimina of four sixteenth-century translations are ready to be sent to the press.

A large proportion of the manuscripts of the Liber Sex Principiorum have been examined: the text, based on the collation of the most important among them, has been established. The most important and most ancient manuscripts of Porphyry's Isagoge have also been collated; the text is almost ready. These two works will form volume I. 6-7 (Supplementa Categoriarum, edited by L. Minio-Paluello), and it is hoped to send them to the press in the first part of 1965.

Dr. Gudrun Diem (Cologne) has agreed to undertake the edition of Metaphysica Vetustissima (transl. Iacobi) and Metaphysica Vetus (anonyma), both covering books I-IV. 4, and also of the 'Translatio Nova' (William of Moerbeke), covering the whole work, apart from the Metaphysica Media, on which she had already done much work. She has established the text of the Vetustissima, after extensive examination of all the existing manuscripts and complete collation of the most important ones, and prepared, in a preliminary form, the Latin and Graeco-Latin apparatus. She has also collated test-passages of all the forty manuscripts of the Vetus, and come to final conclusions on the nature of this text, radically revising the views held to this day by scholars who had examined it. She is now establishing the text of the Vetus, on the basis of the more reliable manuscripts. Sir Roger Mynors has undertaken to edit the De Inundatione Nili, and has already collated a number of manuscripts. Dr. Drossaart Lulofs has made some more progress in his work on De Generatione Animalium. Miss J. Arnolt (Leiden) is preparing an edition of De Mirabilibus Auscultationibus. Some additional work has been done by Miss H. Powell on the fifteenth-century editions of Aristotelian Latin texts, and material is being continuously collected for a new volume of supplements to the Codices.

23. CORPUS PLATONICUM.—See p. 23 below, section 27, paragraph 4.

24. CORPUS VITREARUM MEDII Aevi.—Great Britain: The medieval glass in fifty-seven churches in Oxfordshire has been photographed and classified in detail; thirty-seven more churches in the county remain to be investigated. A descriptive catalogue of the glass in churches and colleges is also in hand. Analysis and concordance of the antiquarian sources relating to the glass have been continued and are now in an advanced stage, and much valuable evidence for dating has been found. A considerable amount of time has also been devoted to the iconography of various Biblical scenes and saints in the extant windows of colleges and halls, and also with reference to other examples in English glass and manuscripts. The glass so far catalogued gives a comprehensive picture of changes in style, design, and technique for the period c. 1250-1540, and suggests that the antiquarian sources that have hitherto been published are incomplete, inaccurate, and misleading. The work has been carried out by Dr. Peter Newton under the direction of Professor Francis Wormald.

For other contributions to the Corpus, see p. 23 below, section 27, paragraph 5.

25. TABULA IMPERII ROMANI.—Progress on the Ancyra-Iconium sheet, which is being prepared by Mr. Michael Ballance, has been slow but steady. As the first Asiatic sheet of the TIR it breaks new ground since there is relatively little previously recorded material. Nevertheless, about two-thirds of the known total of sites have now been recorded from various sources, though a considerable amount of work still remains to be done in Cappadocia.

For other contributions to the TIR, see p. 24 below, section 27, paragraph 6.

26. PROSOPOGRAPHY OF THE LATER ROMAN EMPIRE.—The project for a Prosopography of the Roman Empire, initiated by Mommsen and the Berlin Academy eighty years ago, was divided into two sections, dealing respectively with the early and the later empire. The first section (Prosopographia Imperii Romani, Saec. I-III) was completed and published in 1898, but the appearance of the second section was prevented by two world wars. In 1949, however, the work was revived with the support of the British Academy. By the end of 1961 almost all literary, epigraphic, and papyrological sources for the fourth century had been transcribed on index-cards, although gaps remained for the fifth and sixth centuries. It was then decided to start writing the first volume, to cover A.D. 260-395. The year 1962-3 was spent in sorting, classifying, and indexing cards already received, and in excerpting a number of individual sources hitherto omitted.

In 1963-4 a start has been made on composing the individual entries for the first volume, and Mr. J. R. Martindale (full-time assistant secretary) has completed over 300 notices of varying length. The pace has been slow because of the need to combine meticulous accuracy and full relevant information with clarity and economy of presentation.

In addition to the writing of entries, the Fasti and the Indices have been brought up to date, and cross-reference slips of persons with more than one name—in this century the majority—have been completed. Dr. John Morris (Secretary to the Committee) has concentrated on the general problems underlying the study of the more important people, their family connexions, the changing forms of official appointment, &c., and has drafted a number of major entries in provisional form. This section of the work has been rather more than half completed. Professor A. H. M. Jones (Chairman) has supervised and guided the enterprise, commenting, correcting, and amplifying the entries, and deciding practical points of presentation.

It is hoped that the work will be finished and with the printer in two to three years' time. Meanwhile, a technical report, illustrated by a number of particular examples of historical problems faced, was given to the 1963 Centenary Congress of the Corpus Inscriptionum Latinarum of the Berlin Academy, and will be published in the periodical Klio in 1964.

27. UNION ACADÉMIQUE INTERNATIONALE.—The 37th Annual Meeting was held in Vienna, 13–18 June 1963. The Academy's representatives were Sir Roger Mynors and Mr. C. H. Roberts. The following matters in which the Academy has a direct interest are summarized from the Report of the Conference.

1. CORPUS VASORUM ANTIQUORUM.—During the previous year the following fascicules had appeared: Germany: Berlin 2 and 3, by A. Greifenhagen. Italy: Taranto, Museo Nazionale 3, by C. Drago; Rome, Musei Capitolini 1, by G. Q. Giglioli and V. Bianco; Ferrara, Museo Archeologico 1, by Arias. Poland: Warsaw 5, by Mlle M. L. Bernhard. Switzerland: Geneva 1, by Mlle Brückner. The following fascicules were in the press or in preparation: Germany: Leipzig 2, by Eberhard Paul (black-figure vases, oinochoai, cups and other forms); Heidelberg 2, by Margot Schmidt; Stuttgart, by Erika Kunze-Götte; Frankfurt 1, by Kurt Depper; Heidelberg 3, by Fulvio Canciani; Munich 6, by Hélène Karidi; Hanover, by Dietrich Schultz. Austria: Vienna, Kunsthistorisches Museum 3, by M. F. Eichler (Attic red-figure kraters). Spain: Barcelona 2, by J. de C. Serra i Ràfols (Iberian vases); Barcelona 3, by Mme Trias d'Arribas (Greek pottery not found at Emporiae). United States: New York, Metropolitan Museum 3, by D. von Bothmer (Attic black-figure amphorae); Boston, by Hoffman (black-figure vases); Seattle, Washington, Portland, by D. A. Amyx; Los Angeles, by P. Clement; Cleveland and Toledo, by C. Boulter. France: Louvre 13 and 14 (index to the six preceding fascicules), by F. Villard; Louvre 15, by L. Kahil (Attic lekythoi). Hungary: Budapest 1, by J. Gy. Szilágyi. Italy: Rome, Musei Capitolini 2, by G. Q. Giglioli and V. Bianco; Milan, Musei Civici 2, by G. Belloni; Gela, Museo Archeologico, by Orlandini and Varri. Norway: Museums and other collections, by Seeberg (Italianate vases and prehistoric fragments). Poland: Warsaw 6 and 7, by Mlle M. L. Bernhard. Rumania: Bucharest, National Museum 1. Bucharest (other collections) and other towns. Sweden: Fascicule 1. Switzerland: Geneva 2, by C. Dunand and L. Kahil; Berne 1. Yugoslavia: A fascicule was in preparation. Cyprus had applied for membership of the U.A.I. in order that a Cyprus fascicule might be prepared and published. It was agreed that a section on Cyprus should be included, but membership of the U.A.I. was not granted.

2. CORPUS OF GREEK AND LATIN INSCRIPTIONS.—Spain: Preparation of the CIL for the Iberian peninsula was continuing. Hungary: Volume III (originally prepared by the Berlin Academy) was being re-edited by a committee of seven scholars. Work on the project had started in 1957, and should be finished by autumn 1964. Italy: Volume XII, Fasti Anni

Juliani, would appear shortly, and work was in progress on the Tarentum and Aquileia fascicules. An edition of the Greek inscriptions at Rome was being undertaken by Luigi Moretti. Yugoslavia: The committee, set up in 1961, was preparing a new series of classical inscriptions, and several volumes would be ready by the end of 1963. Work on the Yugoslav inscriptions for the CIL of the Berlin Academy was almost finished. Rumania: Work on inscriptions for the Berlin CIL was nearly completed. The fascicules for Istros, Capidava, and Noviodunum for the national Corpus were already drafted and work on Scythia Minor and Tomis was approaching completion. The texts would not, however, be printed until the fascicules for Dobrudja and Dacia were ready.

3. ARISTOTELES LATINUS.—See p. 19 above, section 22.

4. CORPUS PLATONICUM.—With the appearance of Volume IV of the Plato Latinus, the Timaeus with Commentary by Calcidius, edited by J. H. Waszink, all known medieval Latin translations of Plato's works had been made accessible, either in full or (as in the case of the Meno and the Phaedo, translated by Henricus Aristippus, the Parmenides, translated by William of Moerbeke, and the Timaeus) almost in full. Work had been carried out on the question of the Greek manuscript used by Cicero for his translation (fragmentary) of the Timaeus. Research in German and Italian libraries had resulted in the discovery of several other manuscripts containing translations by Calcidius and Cicero of the Timaeus; these were to be added to the catalogue. A list of manuscripts containing the different versions of the Commentary of William of Conches—either in full, or fragmentary—had been drawn up. A new examination of the manuscript of the first complete translation of the Parmenides to be discovered, annotated by Nicolas of Cusa, had been in progress, in order to establish whether or not it had been written out by the translator (George of Trebizond) himself. Work had been carried out by Mlle L. Labowsky on the catalogue of books in the library of Cardinal Bessarion. Marginal notes made by Nicolas of Cusa in his copies of the works of Plato were in the press.

5. CORPUS VITREARUM MEDII Aevi.—Great Britain: see p. 20 above, section 24. The following volumes were in preparation: Germany: Volumes for the Rhineland (IV), Cologne Cathedral (V), Swabia 1350-1480 (II), Baden, Hesse, and Westphalia (III and VI), Erfurt and Mühlhausen (VII), Nuremberg 1300-1520 (X), Franken 1300-1520 (XI), Regensburg-Oberpfalz (XIII). Austria: Lower Austria (II). Belgium: Fifteenth-century stained glass of Belgium (II). Spain: Medieval glass of Catalonia and Aragon (I). United States: Medieval stained glass in the United States of America (I). France: Saint-Ouen and Rouen (XXV), Strasbourg Cathedral and the Musée de l'Œuvre (VIII), Limousin and Poitou (XVII), Languedoc and Guyenne (XV and XVI), Paris and environs (II), Seine-Maritime (XXV), Chartres (XX), Lower Rhine (VIII). Italy: Tuscany (II). Poland: Cracow and Torun (I). Portugal: Medieval stained glass of Portugal. Sweden: Medieval stained glass of Scandinavia. Switzerland: Fourteenth to fifteenth-century Swiss stained glass (III), Königsfelden (II), Bern Cathedral (IV). Czechoslovakia: Medieval stained glass of the Czechoslovakian Republic.

6. TABULA IMPERII ROMANI.—Great Britain: see above, p. 21, section 25. Austria: The bibliography relating to the Mediolanum and Prague sheets had been brought up to date in 1962. Hungary: A meeting of delegates from Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Hungary, and Rumania had been held in Budapest in June 1963 to discuss the publication (in 1965) of the Aquincum sheet. Italy: Work was progressing on the Mediolanum sheet. At a meeting which took place in Ljubljana in 1962, the various countries taking part in the project had discussed the Aquincum and Naissus sheets. Switzerland: The Swiss section of the Mediolanum sheet was in preparation; it was to be published with a subvention from the Swiss National Fund. Yugoslavia: A study was being made of the Roman Limes. There were in preparation three volumes on the Clausura occidentalis, the first of which was to be published before the end of the year.

7. CODICES LATINI ANTIQUIORES.—Volume X, containing manuscripts in the libraries of Austria, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Egypt, and Holland had been published in May 1963. Preparation of Volume XI, dealing with Hungary, Poland, Spain, Sweden, the U.S.A., the U.S.S.R., and Yugoslavia was progressing favourably.

Volume III of the Chartae Latinae Antiquiores, dealing with Latin non-literary papyri and parchments earlier than A.D. 800 in the British Museum, was to be published in due course. It would contain nineteen papyri of the first to sixth centuries, three papyri from Ravenna of the sixth and seventh centuries, and twenty-two Anglo-Saxon Charters of the seventh and eighth centuries. Volume IV, containing documents found in England, Scotland, Ireland, Scandinavia, Belgium, and the Netherlands would be published in 1964.
